About Us

BoyaConf is an initiative from a group of students from Boyacá, Colombia who – inspired and motivated by the multiple software communities in Colombia – want to organize the very first conference of its kind in this Colombian state.

We want to allow sharing knowledge and deepen in topics related to communication, software development and the broader IT industry in order to create a recognized local community.

Purpose

BoyaConf's mission is to increase knowledge level of the Boyacá community. We plan to do this by being a programming language agnostic conference, which allows us to cover a wide range of topics such as:

Functional Programming, Machine Learning, DevOps, Microservices, Multiplatform Development, Internet of Things, Cloud Computing, Information Security, Continuous Deployment and Integration, Tips for Juniors, Soft Skills, and more.

Location

BoyaConf will be held in Duitama, Boyacá, Colombia.

Duitama is also known as “The civic capital of Boyacá” and “La perla de Boyacá”.

Duitama is the most important land transport port in eastern Colombia as it is located on the Central North Trunk; it is a strategic point of industrial and commercial relations in this region of the country.

Impact

BoyaConf expects to gain more than 150 attendees from Boyacá as well as other areas of Colombia.

We also want to demonstrate that Boyacá has the talent and interest to create a stable community. We want every attendee can feel the event as theirs by promoting unity and collective learning.

Additionally, we aim to create and promote connections between local IT talent and your company; allowing your company to continue growing and expanding to new communities by utilizing their talent.
